Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Kutarq is a multidisciplinary office that focuses on architecture and product design. It arises from the hand of Jordi López Aguiló, architect from Valencia who has worked and collaborate with several prestigious architectural firms. Each project is the result of a methodical process, in which tests and formal research have a very important role. In product design projects, there is a special interest in creating objects that interact with users and affect their mood, promoting the use of recycled materials and re-use culture.
