Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

My name is Peter Scott and I'm a graphic designer currently based in Glasgow, Scotland. I graduated from Cumbria Institute of the Arts with a BA (Hons) Degree in Graphic Design in 2002. After graduating I exhibited work at the Emerging Young Artists exhibition in 2003 which led to me working freelance for the design studio Fluid in Birmingham.

Following a move to Glasgow I worked for Graven Images and Wark/Clements before settling at the multi-disciplinary studio Art is an Option. I've worked for a variety of clients in various sectors including BP, NHS, Browns Food Group, Helius Energy, Diageo and Stirling Council. I enjoy all aspects of my work and especially the challenge I face every day, to push boundaries whenever possible and to create original and effective ideas. Recent work includes user interface design (UI) for iOS and Android App and also illustrations, character design/animation, icons and UI for an iOS game published on iTunes (for iPhone, iPod Touch, iPad).

Away from work I enjoy going along to design talks and socialising with other designers, reading design blogs/magazines or working on self-initiated illustrative and design projects.

I'm also a keen illustrator and exhibited work at Emerging Young Artists 2003 exhibition in Birmingham and I've also had work shown on the Computer Arts website.

A white Blyth Utilities van is shown from a rear three-quarter view against a solid blue background. The van is decorated with a large, colorful geometric pattern of triangles and diamonds in shades of pink, yellow, blue, and grey. The Blyth Utilities logo, consisting of the word 'Blyth' in a large, stylized font and 'Utilities' in a smaller font below it, is visible on the side and rear of the van. The website address 'blythutilities.co.uk' is also printed on the side and rear. The van has a black side door and a black rear door.
