Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Dave Moser is commercial portraiture photographer and his work has been featured in magazines, collateral materials, and advertising around the world. With hundreds of covers, billboards, thousands of assignments and hundreds of thousands of miles traveled, he has never questioned his decision to become a photographer. Photography is one of the only things he does where the world falls away while doing it. He can bring out the best in subjects from CEOs to housewives. While his marketing campaigns have captured the attention of the national press and elevated his career, Dave's work continues to win awards.

Dave's decision to become a photographer came while working construction after high school. Standing hip deep in a slush of partially frozen water, diesel fuel, and oil concentrate, he began to dream of reading philosophy, art history and photographing. After graduating number one in his class with a BFA from the University of Dayton, he moved back to Philadelphia. A short while later, he started to acquire top clients; the vast majority of whom he still works with.
