The image shows a screenshot of the 'WhereWars' website. At the top, there's a banner with the game's title 'WHEREWARS' in a stylized, metallic font. Above the title are three cartoonish, armored characters. To the right of the banner, there are links to the App Store and Facebook. Below the banner, there are three columns of text and images. The first column is titled '100% Cloud-Based Gaming' and mentions that units continue to obey orders even when logged out. The second column is titled 'First Conquer Your Town, Then Take Over the World!' and mentions that in-game maps are generated using real-world location data. The third column is titled 'Resources from Real Structures' and mentions that real-world locations are used as part of strategy. Below these columns is a section titled 'Top Commanders' with a crown icon. It features a table with 10 rows, each showing a rank, a username, and the number of places owned. The background of the entire page is a fiery, orange and yellow explosion.

The image shows a screenshot of the 'Battlefield 3 Act of Valor' promotional page. The background is a dark, atmospheric scene with a soldier in the foreground, looking towards the viewer. In the background, there are explosions and the silhouettes of other soldiers. The text 'BATTLEFIELD 3 ACT OF VALOR' is prominently displayed at the top. Below this, there's a section titled 'WATCH THE BEST, THEN BECOME THE BEST' which includes a link to 'VIEW TRAILER NOW TO BEGIN'. At the bottom, there are logos for EA and Relativity Media, along with some small text and a rating icon.
